

LUXURIOUS SEATING

IOTA, in collaboration with Ligne Roset, recently introduced two sofas, christened Ploum and Prado. The Ploum seating, designed by R. & E. Bouroullec, is crafted with a stretchable covering and soft foam. This combination of materials as well as the ample dimensions provide comfort and accommodates different ways of sitting, stretching out and lying down. As per the designers' wishes, the large settee is asymmetrical in construction – the right-hand backrest is a little higher than the one on the left, whilst the right-hand seat is slightly deeper than the left-hand one. The zip on the rear of the backrest is off-centre. The seat of the sofa can accommodate up to four people. The Prado Sofa is a contemporary piece designed by Christian Werner. It comprises a long seat that can be used independently or with other elements. The weighted cushions are equipped with anti-slip system and will remain in place without needing to be supported by another object. These elements can therefore be arranged on the sofa according to one's needs, creating a 'moving backrest'. The multipurpose sofa can also open into a bed simply by the turning of its seat cushion, the reverse of which is covered with mattress ticking.

GEOMETRIC BATHWARE

GRAFF has expanded its FINEZZA faucet collection to include a coordinating sink and free-standing bathtub for a complete bathroom suite collection. The offering mirrors the geometries and glamour celebrated during the Art Deco period, representing a perfect blend of grace and elegance. The bathtub is characterised by a trapezoidal shape, which is accentuated by a layered detail at the top and base. Traditional in its form, and modern in its material, the soaking tub with an integrated overflow offers users a luxurious oasis to relax and unwind. Drawing upon the geometric shape exuded by collection's bathtub, the matching sink offers a sophisticated design focal point in the bath. The sink can be specified to the user's liking, with no faucet holes (for wall-mount or vessel faucets), one faucet hole, or three faucet holes and is suitable for countertop, vanity, or drop-in installations. Both the bathtub and sink offerings are available in White Gloss Sleek-Stone® or White Matte Sleek-Stone® finishes. The Sleek-Stone® material combines 75% natural dolomitic minerals with resin to create a naturally durable surface.
