

ICFF Preview: Kitchen & Bath

The kitchen and bath products debuting at ICFF this year bring style and function to commercial and residential spaces. Finishes are sleek or matte, while every color is represented, from vibrant primary shades to cool pastel hues. Fixtures are now sculptural pieces that transform simple living areas into showcases for high design.

Graff: Harley Faucet
graff.com

An ergonomic shape serves as the basis for this new design, allowing for a variety of grip techniques to be utilized, and the internal cartridge transitions water temperature with the turn of a handle.

Laufen: Sonar Collection
laufen.com

Sonar by Patricia Urquiola features washbasins, basin bowls, and a bathtub made of Laufen's Saphir Keramik, a strong ceramic material, with designs that emphasize arcs and angles to bring sophistication to the bathroom.

Reform: UP Kitchen
reformcph.com

With a minimalistic design by the Danish architecture studio Lendager Group, UP is a kitchen crafted of solid recycled wood and surplus materials by flooring manufacturer Dinesen.

Amba: Antus Collection
ambaproducts.com

Available in polished and brushed stainless steel finishes, this collection of 32-bar heated towel racks has plenty of space for the largest towels, with nine different levels of adjustable heat and a digital controller.

AXOR: MyEdition Collection
axor-design.com

With six low-profile faucet bodies and seven different cover plates made of a variety of materials, the cover plates can be retrofitted so that users can change the look of their bathroom at a later date.

Franz Viegener: Buzz Widespread Faucet
franzviegener.com

With precise yet fluid dimensions, and available in several finishes, this faucet has softly rounded line segments that meet at a delicate angle, yielding a standout shape.

NY Cement Tile: Geometrika Collection
nycementtile.com

Designed by architect Luca Andrisani, this vibrant collection features encaustic tiles that are made by hand so that no two pieces are alike, with colorful, overlapping geometric patterns.

Eko Flooring & Woodwork: Wood Flooring
ekony.com

Eko provides a wide range of high-quality, hardwood flooring for builders, architects, and designers to use in kitchen and bath spaces, with solid and engineered flooring in both pre-finished and unfinished options.